Hooksett, New Hampshire

Hooksett's ideal location between Manchester and Concord along major transportation routes has made it a favorite with residents and businesses alike. In the past 20 years, Hooksett has grown from a small town into the 20th largest municipality in New Hampshire.

Despite its recent growth, Hooksett has successfully preserved much of its architectural and natural heritage. Local preservation efforts were recognized in the Preserve America designation awarded to the town in 2005. The Preserve America initiative was established by the Bush Administration to encourage and support community efforts for the preservation and enjoyment of America's heritage. Hooksett was the first community in New Hampshire to receive this designation.

Hooksett residents enjoy convenient shopping centers, restaurants, movie theaters and recreation areas. Fine dining, theaters, shopping malls, boutiques and nightclubs are just a short drive away in nearby Manchester and Concord. For longer adventures, Boston and New Hampshire's lakes, mountains and beaches are all within an hour's drive.
